WLL Weekend Services and Engineering Works

- There are no changes to the regular WLL Southern times at weekends, save that on Sundays most trains are due to arrive at Watford Junction two minutes earlier as from 23 May 2010.
- The London Overground WLL service on Saturdays has at least two trains per hour between Clapham Junction and Willesden Junction. On some Saturdays this is increased to three trains per hour between about 1000 and 1730.
- Due to engineering works at Willesden Junction, there will be no London Overground services between Shepherd's Bush and Willesden Junction on ALL Sundays until December 2010 – Buses 220 and 228 may be suitable alternatives. For dates and details of these and/or any other engineering work on the WLL and/or elsewhere, please check before travelling with National Rail train enquiries, on www.nationalrail.co.uk or local publicity on stations.
