INTRODUCTION

A maze of 'Exotic Cultures and Hidden Curiosities', that is how Earl's Court was once described, and that is how we at the Festival office see it. Round every corner lies a nestled gem.

This year the Festival wants you to get lost with us as we open doors and gateways and listen to the myriad voices of this international village.

By working in partnership with and promoting local business we keep ourselves at the heart of the community. And our range of events shows how we want to stand for all.

From music to literature, comedy to theatre, children's events to events for young adults, from war fiction and exploration, to bubbling burlesque and Mamma Mia! in the beautiful Nevern Square Gardens.

At the Earl's Court Festival there really is something for everyone.

The Earl's Court Festival is a project of the Earl's Court Community Trust. This local charity, set up in 2007, exists to support initiatives that bring the Earl's Court community together and new opportunities to local people. From its office at the heart of Earl's Court the Trust is currently working to create a permanent hub for local projects and community initiatives.

If you would like more information about the Trust or to get involved, please contact: Rebecca Claydon, 0207 370 0042, info@earlscourtfestival.co.uk

TRAVEL INFORMATION

Travel to and from Festival venues by public transport is well provided for by National Rail, Underground and London Buses. West Brompton (adjacent to Brompton Cemetery and Earls Court Exhibition) is served by National Rail (Southern and London Overground) along the West London Line – with connections to the West Coast Main Line at Watford Junction and Milton Keynes, Willesden Junction (for London Overground's North and East London Lines) and Clapham Junction for Southern and South West Trains – and also by the District Line branch to Fulham, Putney and Wimbledon.

Earl's Court station has entrances in both Warwick Road and Earls Court Road and is served by both District and Piccadilly Lines – westwards to Hammersmith, Acton, Heathrow, Richmond. Ealing and Wimbledon: eastwards to Notting Hill, Paddington, the West End, the City, Docklands and beyond to Dagenham and Upminster.

Bus Routes C1 (for White City), C3 (Earl's Court Tesco), 74 (for West End & Baker Street via Cromwell Road & South Kensington) and 328 (for Kensington High Street, Notting Hill and Golders Green station) run northwards along Warwick Road and southwards down Earl's Court Road – C1 for Victoria, C3 for Clapham Junction, 74 for Putney High Street, 328 for Chelsea. Two additional routes are the 430 (from West Brompton to South Kensington) and the 190 (West Brompton/Empress State Building to Richmond via Hammersmith). There are also excellent N74, N97 & N31 Night Bus services for determined revellers.
